

THE pioneering spirit seems to have gone out. Mussolini went to Africa to boom the real-estate market of Tripoli. There are countless acres of good land, for sale to Italian citizens for $1 an acre, plus perhaps $30 more development costs and they are going begging, while land no better in Tunis, is in demand at very much higher prices. The Italians prefer to go to a country already developed, rather than pioneer a new country at greater gain.

The Italians are not alone in this. In no country is there greater pressure of population than in Japan. Yet in Kokkaido, in northern Japan, there is much good undeveloped land, awaiting only people, to which Japanese will not go, because it is cold, and because it is pioneer work. The same difficulty keeps them out of parts of Manchuria otherwise available to them. The Dutch government is confronted with the problem of overcrowded Java, with twenty million people in an island smaller than California, while almost next door is the immensely rich island of Sumatra, without people enough to work it, to which the Javanese simply refuse to go. They would have to pioneer. Nearly all the population of Australia is in a few big cities. The Boer population of South Africa is dwindling, and the black flood is returning. And the racial purity of America is threatened by the demand for servile labor of alien races, to do the work that Americans refuse to do. Our fathers did it, and conquered this land in the process. But what white men, mostly of British race, once did, and what Chinese, alone among modern peoples, will still do, the rest of humanity seems too soft to undertake. It is a poor omen for the race.

ASKS SPEEDY RATIFICATION OF CONTRACT

Secretary of Interior in Los Angeles After Visit To Yuma River Project

DELAY IS DANGEROUS

Cabinet Head Says Pending Legislation Is Openly Supported in Congress

(By United Press)

LOS ANGELES, April 26.—Denouncing "partisan opposition" to the Boulder canyon dam project, Secretary of the Interior Hubert Work today urged speedy ratification of the pending Colorado river compact.

"It will make for a just division of the Colorado river waters between the upper and lower states, and bring to an end a threatened and costly interstate rivalry," Secretary Work declared.

The secretary and his party, including Dr. Elwood Mead, federal commissioner of reclamation, arrived here today from Yuma, where the latter inspected the Yuma river project.

Secretary Work's address in support of his early action on the Colorado river project was delivered shortly after his arrival, before a joint meeting of the City Club and Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

"The proposed project, in its engineering phases, is the greatest work of its kind in the world," he said. "Its magnitude will challenge the talent of the country's ablest engineers. As designed, it will contain 3,275,000 cubic yards of concrete, or three times that of the Aswan dam in Egypt, which is the greatest masonry dam ever built."

"The highest dam, the costliest canal, and one of the largest developments of hydro-electric power in the world—it will contribute to human welfare and the creation of new wealth throughout the Colorado basin and tributary country."

"The necessity for an early settlement of the respective rights of the different states and two nations in this river, and in the carrying out of the proposed development on the lower portion of the stream, is vital," Secretary Work continued.

"Pending legislation in congress is being openly supported, in its general principles, by the interior department, but delay in enactment of the measure is being caused by the inertia which all great undertakings encounter, and the necessity for adjusting rival and conflicting views."

Avoid Suspicion.

"It is, therefore, of vital importance that agreement upon facts in connection with this great Colorado river development be set properly before congress, as a national undertaking, so that the suspicion may be avoided that its purpose is for personal promotion or local development only."

"Early action should be directed to removing the misgivings of doubters as to your necessity for more water for irrigation and domestic uses, and it should be shown that there is a sufficient demand from industries for the power that can be generated."

"It is my belief that as soon as the Boulder dam legislation has been approved by congress, the applications for private power development should have immediate consideration."

Referring to Arizona's failure to ratify the Colorado compact, Secretary Work said:

"The Colorado river compact is being resisted by a state that could profit by this comprehensive development. Maneuvering for individual or corporate advantage is being resorted to by those speculating in hopes, but it is confusing the main issue. If there are among you individuals who for personal, partisan or political advantage are embarrassing this project, they should be excluded from your counsels."

FULLERTON MAN 'LEFT OUT' IN BUILDING DEAL

Sale of the six-story Markwell building, in the heart of Long Beach, for a cash consideration of $1,250,000, as reported in the press Saturday, found its sequel here today.

Knute Norswing, Fullerton farmer, traded valuable Los Angeles property for that same skyscraper and loaned $50,000 to the man who owned it.

Then he discovered that the building already had been deeded to someone else and further, that it wasn't as "clear" as he had been told.

Such, at least, is Norswing's story, related in a complaint filed in superior court against W. D. Mitchell and the Markwell Building company. Norswing has sued to void his exchange agreement and to get judgment for the $50,000 he claims to have loaned Mitchell.

The Markwell building was sold last Saturday to the Jergins Trust, of Long Beach. Norswing claims that he entered the deal for it last September 16. Later, he discovered, he says, that Mitchell, who owned all of the shares of the Markwell company, had a deal in escrow by which the Markwell building was deeded to Mr. and Mrs. John Gray, of Glendale.

Judging from the present sale announcement, the Grays also failed to get the building.

According to Norswing's complaint, he traded three tracts of land, aggregating 254 acres, fronting on Hope street, Los Angeles, for the Markwell building, which is situated at Ocean boulevard and Pine street, Long Beach. Mitchell, said Norswing, falsely represented that there was not more than $50,000 "against" the building, besides a $500 architect fee.

The Fullerton man later discovered, he says, that Mitchell had not only omitted a $60,000 note from the list of liabilities against the building and that the architect fee was really $7,500, but that the deed to the Grays already had been placed in escrow.

Norswing decided that it was time he should stiffen his ambition to own a skyscraper. He retained the Los Angeles law firm, Holcombe and Holcombe, to represent him in the court proceedings.

COUNTY PIONEER SUCCUMBS IN L. A.

Mrs. Eleanor P. Billingsley, 70, a pioneer of Orange county, died today in a Los Angeles hospital. Funeral services will be held here, at 3:30 p.m. tomorrow, it was announced today. Mrs. Billingsley had been in the hospital for a month.

Mrs. Billingsley was the wife of Ray Billingsley, of Villa Park, and had been a resident of this vicinity for more than 40 years, coming from Iowa. In her younger life, she was particularly active in church work. She was also interested in the collection of Indian wares and is said to have accumulated, in her home, one of the best displays of basketry and rugs to be found in the Southland. They are the handiwork of American and Alaskan Indians.

Besides the husband, Mrs. Billingsley is survived by two sons and two daughters, Patterson and Harlow Billingsley and Mrs. Hester Searles of Glendale, and Mrs. Helen Flinham, of Los Angeles.

Man Pleads Guilty To Liquor Charge

Charles M. Kistler, 25, La Habra, today pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of intoxicating liquor in Justice William French's court, in Fullerton. He will be sentenced this afternoon.

Kistler was arrested by deputy sheriffs yesterday and is alleged to have had a quantity of liquor and a glass in his car at the time of arrest.

He spent last night in the county jail.

Harry Baade of Tustin, city passenger agent for the Santa Fe, who was stricken ill suddenly a week ago, has recovered and expects to return to his duties tomorrow.

Mrs. H. M. Sammis of 216 East Washington avenue returned Friday from Santa Monica, where she had been for three days in attendance at the state convention of the State Federation of Music clubs.

Mrs. Sammis is Orange county vice president, having held that office for the past four years. She gave the report for the Orange county federation and for the Ebell music section. Mrs. Abbie Jamison of Los Angeles, who called the first meeting for the organization of the federation, was made president, and will appoint the new county vice presidents. Mrs. Sammis went to Brea today to sing before the Brea Woman's club.

Occupants of the other machine in the collision escaped with minor cuts and bruises. All were treated in the Santa Ana Valley hospital.

They were Mrs. Amelia Perkins, 71, 1041 West Third street, Santa Ana, and Richard and Mary Perkins, of the same address. All three suffered lacerations about the body.

Four Escape Injury

The driver of the third machine was S. Scott Prather, 336 East Pine street, Santa Ana, who, with Mrs. Prather and Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Kuykendall, escaped injury.

According to Prather's report at the sheriff's office, a truck, driven by Robert L. Wugraf, San Diego, suddenly cut around in front of him, crowding the first car it met off the road. The second machine, in dodging the truck, collided with the machine driven by Driver, head on, the force of the collision causing the machine to collide with the Prather machine.

Prather reported he gave chase to the truck, overtaking it and securing the driver's name. Today, Prather is endeavoring to communicate with a young man, who was driving a roadster and who enabled him to overtake the truck.

He wants the man to appear as a witness against the truck driver, who, he alleges, caused the accident. Prather asks that the youth communicate with the sheriff's office here.

Two persons, Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Campbell, 137 West Lemon street, Monrovia, narrowly escaped death or serious injury, when the small car, in which they were riding, collided with a Santa Ana-Orange street car, just north of the San Joaquin creek bridge, on North Main street, at 3:40 yesterday afternoon.

Treated in Hospital

Both persons were cut and bruised, but, after receiving medical attention in the Santa Ana Valley hospital, were able to return to their homes.

Part of the street is closed for repairs and, according to a report made to the city police, a woman driver in a machine in front of the Campbell machine stopped suddenly, causing Campbell to swerve around her. As he did so, his machine collided with the car. The car was in charge of Motorman E. R. Marshall and was traveling north at the time of the accident.

The injured persons were taken to the hospital by Gerald Goddard, 635 South Broadway, Los Angeles, according to the report.

The Campbell machine was badly damaged.

Mrs. A. B. Driver, 339 South Olive street, Orange, riding in a machine with her son, C. C. Driver, is in the Santa Ana Valley hospital suffering from a fractured femur and serious cuts and bruises. The son received first aid treatment in the hospital and later was removed to his home.

know God cares even more than you do.

FINAL MORNING
FINDS $750,000
TAXES UNPAID

Approximately $750,000 remained to be posted as "paid" upon the county tax rolls today, as County Tax Collector J. C. Lamb opened his doors for the final day's rush of 1925 taxpayers.

Part of that sum was represented in the mail sacks that were piling up in the tax collector's quarters but the rest had to come through the row of grated windows in Lamb's office before he shuts the door at 5 o'clock this afternoon.
That hour marked the "dead line," after which all unpaid taxes will be listed as delinquent.

The delinquent penalty is 5 per cent, with 50 cents added for each unpaid item.

The last several days have been extremely busy ones in the tax collector's office. On Friday, the collections were $100,054.51 and on Saturday, they reached $147,049.42.

Each incoming mail adds its bulk to the growing pile that will not be fully sorted until days from now.
It probably will be two weeks before the jam is untangled, Lamb said today.

"To get an idea of what kind of a job we are up against at these times," said Lamb, "one should get out his watch and time himself the next time he gets a letter by mail.
See how long it takes to open the letter, read it, and then answer it.
Multiply the time you find it takes by a few thousand and you will see what we have to do with our tax mail."

Two damage suits, aggregating $7500, have been filed in superior court by O. E. Yorke, Anaheim veterinarian, against the firm of Dungan and Callicott, alleging that the defendants caused his eviction from leased premises on North Lemon street and La Palma avenue, Anaheim, and also that they sold him a veterinary hospital and kennels, of which he later was deprived by another claimant, whose ownership was better founded.

Yorke asks $5000 damages in the suit over his eviction and $2500 damages for alleged "deceit" in connection with the hospital sale.

He had sub-leased quarters from Dungan and Callicott for eight years, he alleged. G. M. Bartlett, owner of the property, evicted
Dungan and Callicott and Yorke, also, through some fault of Dungan and Callicott, it is claimed.

Yorke found himself facing the necessity of negotiating a new lease from Bartlett at less advantageous terms.

Evangelists Bert Bruffett and have been holding a revival campaign the last two months in tent dle states and in Canada, it became generally known today. The evan-geliasts revealed their plans at services yesterday, when they announced that farewell services would be held at the tent next Sunday.

He wants damages for this fact,
for the difference in rental under his new lease and for the lost chance of selling his old lease at a profit. He also demands damages for alleged slander of his possession of the premises, by Dungan and Callicott, who said he had no right to such possession, he charges.

THE CORRECT EFFECT IN THE EVENING

Like "the law of the Medes and Persians which altereth not," evening clothes, from one season to another, are subject to no change in their essentials. The smart accessories of Tuxedo dress are an oft-told tale that needs no re-telling. Yet, much confusion still exists in the minds of those who assume semi-formal evening wear occasionally, instead of habitually.
For example, it is astonishing to find some men cherishing
the misbelief that one's Tuxedo suit may also be worn during the day or that the Tuxedo is that proper turnout for a morning or afternoon wedding. Others cling to the impression that the Tuxedo is only a sort of upstage or glorified sack suit and that, therefore, almost any type of shirt, collar, tie and shoe may correctly accompany.

These two principles should be kept firmly in mind—the Tuxedo must express in its details the formality of its character.
This eliminates the turn-over collar, the white silk shirt, the colored ribbon upon a straw hat and all other accessories which belong to lounge clothes in the daytime.

It is just as easy and no more costly to be right as wrong. Moreover, the consciousness of being properly turned out makes a man enjoy wearing evening dress and makes him wear it eagerly, frequently and self-assuredly.

Illustrated here are the approved details of semi-formal evening (Tuxedo) clothes, including the wing collar, the black bow-knot tie and the white pleated-bosom shirt with single rounded cuffs. The pleats upon one's shirt-front may be wide or narrow, as personal taste and becomingness dictate. The wing collar should be chosen in a shape that befits the neck. The bow-knot tie may be broad, middling or narrow and may have square, pointed or rounded tips, according to which style looks best on you.

Correct evening dress is the same, be it winter or summer. Contrary to popular opinion, it is just as comfortable as any other turnout a man can assume. To go upon the dance floor in double-breasted jacket and white flannel trousers makes one no cooler and lays one open to the charge of ignorance, indifference or impudence. Be correct, not corrected. Subscribe to good form. Dress as the best dressed men dress—and enjoy your evening.

SPORT WARNING IS ISSUED BY WILL C. WOOD

enthusiasm and community interest, high school boys, who are passing through the critical adolescent period, are prone to over-estimate their vitality and to jeopardize the normal development of their organic power through over-indulgence in this most strenuous game.

"Careful individual supervision is, of course, the first essential and I believe that every teacher of physical education should be held responsible for such supervision, but school administrators should regulate the frequency of games and the length of the season in accordance with the physiological capacity of growing boys rather than by practices in colleges or by number of games which the league schedules demands.

"From the standpoint of education, as well as health, the scheduling of more than one inter-school contest for any team during the week seems to me to be difficult to justify."

A warning against overdoing sports in high school grades is sounded by Will C. Wood, state superintendent of public instruction, in a bulletin issued by his office and received by R. F. Mitchell, county superintendent of schools.

The state superintendent goes on to say:

"In connection with the rapidly increasing popularity of basketball, I wish to remind school administrators that under the pressure of

CUSTOMS AND CONDITIONS IN ABYSSINIA ARE RELATED BY MISSIONARIES NOW IN CITY

A murderer in Abyssinia has the privilege of going out and begging for money, and if he can secure $200 he becomes a free man, while he must hang if he fails in his begging efforts to raise the quoted sum, according to statements made yesterday morning to the congregation of the United Presbyterian church by Mrs. Fred Russell during an address in which she spoke of the life and habits of natives.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell are missionaries, supported by the Santa Ana church, and they are here on furlough. Both spoke at the morning service.

Mrs. Russell spoke of the joy and delight of returning to the homeland to be among old-time friends after an absence in the foreign field among strangers and strange scenes for a period of about six years.

Speaking of the customs and conditions of the people living in Abyssinia, she said that they have but two seasons there, wet and dry—four months wet and the rest of the year dry.

Appreciates Being Home

"Here in America you have autos and every comfort that luxury can afford, but out there we have to travel on mules, so we appreciate the home," said the returned missionary.

"Our laws and everything else are different. Injustice reigns throughout the land. A murderer has the privilege of going out to beg for money and if he can secure $200 he becomes a free man. If he does not get the money he has to hang."

"One of the pitiful sights is to see lepers out begging. That is the burden of our hearts."

Mrs. Russell commented on the daily avocation of the people and of the changed life of those who come to know God as their Saviour. She spoke of the trials and difficulties of missionaries in the foreign field. She said that sometimes the natives would walk 500 miles to see how missionaries were getting along. In the matter of barter and trade, she said, natives would spend a week over a transaction of 25 cents or 50 cents. Many natives work a whole day for 75 cents.

Mr. Russell discussed the hardships endured by the natives and their unfortunate customs and superstitions.

"The natives regard all sickness as the result of evil spirits," Russell said. "They do not know anything of the higher life, neither do they have mercy for man or beast. The opportunity for Christian workers is great, indeed. There is great need for physicians, especially. The people are glad to hear the story of the Gospel. The lack of workers is the serious thing. The field is almost, as yet, untouched. The challenge comes to us in this day and it is up to us to answer."

Guests at Reception

The visiting missionaries arrived here Friday and were guests that evening at a reception in the church. Both addressed the Sunday school yesterday, and last night Mr. Russell gave a stereopticon lecture, the views from the Abyssinian missionary field being taken by himself at odd times during his six weeks' residence in that far-away country.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell were guests this afternoon at a social given in the home of Mrs. E. M. Smiley, 701 West Washington avenue, the affair being arranged as a courtesy to the visitors. Tomorrow afternoon, the Young Ladies' Missionary society will give an "at home" in the home of the Misses Mabel and Ada McFadden, 906 North Main street.

Tomorrow evening, a dinner will be given in the church for men and their friends, when Mr. Russell will answer questions in regard to missionary operations in the foreign land. He will repeat his illustrated lecture in the church Wednesday night, this taking the place of the regular midweek service.

Mrs. C. D. Chamberlain was honored guest at a party given for her recently by her daughter, Mrs. Floyd Napier, and her niece, Mrs. Walter Schultz, complimentary to her birthday anniversary.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

First Presbyterian

The home of Mrs. J. J. Hershiser at 211 South Birch street, was lavishly decorated with flowers last Thursday afternoon, complimentary to the members of the south-west section of the First Presbyterian Aid society who gathered to enjoy the hospitality of Mrs. Hershiser and a group of assistant hostesses composed of Mesdames Cynthia Davis, George Reed, Fay Gammell, F. C. Drake, Baxter, Garlock, Dr. Alma Bartel and Miss Louise Brokaw.

Half a hundred members were present to enjoy a social afternoon of games, contests and friendly conversation. Refreshments were served ere the pleasant event drew to a close.

Jolly Dozen

First Presbyterian

The Jolly Dozen 500 club was entertained charmingly last Thursday afternoon by Mrs. John Rudolph at his home, 921 Hickory street, which was prettily decorated with flowers from her own lovely garden.

After the merry games were concluded, prizes of handsome towels were awarded Mrs. G. W. Young, Miss Barbara Klatt and Mrs. J. W. Markel.

Decision having been made that refreshments will not be served at meetings this year, Mrs. Rudolph served a cooling drink and a brief social period was enjoyed.

Those present besides Mrs. Rudolph were Mesdames C. W. Schmidleberg, George W. Young, Olive Lopez, Elizabeth Dryer, Frank B. Smith, J. W. Markel, Michael Lynch, S. E. Grotz, Frank Koss, W. J. Schonberg, and the Misses Barbara and Bertha Klatt.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. W. J. Schonberg at 1002 North Broadway.

Ebell Travelers

First Presbyterian

When Ebell's third travel section met recently at the home of Mrs. Charles Carothers on Wellington avenue, it was to hear an interesting program arranged for by Mrs. J. Edmund Snow, who introduced Robert Speed as speaker.

Before entering into his description of Aztec pyramids in Central Mexico, Mr. Speed gave a brief talk on the Aztecs, that lost nation of which so little can be learned save by explorations of the pyramids. All other traces of their civilization were destroyed by the invading Spaniards.

The pyramids described by Mr. Speed have in their group, the next to the largest one in the world.

His story of explorations was most vivid and interesting. Following his talk, Miss Margaret Carothers, a talented young pianist, gave two delightful Chopin numbers.

ONIGHT at The Barn, famous haunt of Santa Ana Community Players, the monthly revels of the Business and Professional Women's club will be held with Miss Martha Whitson, president, and her board of directors to have charge of the entertainment features. Miss Doris Robbins has arranged for a one-act play by a group of talented Community Players, and other entertaining features will be introduced. The evening's gaieties will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

Heretofore, the monthly social evenings of the Business Women, have been more or less formal affairs, some one member opening her home to the club or some special dinner and program being planned such as last month's trip to Laramie where the F. W. Cupples studio was graciously opened to the young women they dined at the White House. But informality will prevail tonight not only during the program interval but in the succeeding hour of merriment during which refreshments will be served at a Barn.

Mrs. Gallagher will speak at the church at 2:30 o'clock and those interested in organized work of the church are asked to join the alliance members in their enjoyment of her talk. Money-raising, which in the estimation of the distinguished president, is preeminently woman's work in the church, is but a means to an end, namely, the provision of proper environment for the development of spiritual life particularly through church schools and by promoting religion in the home.

Oscar Gallagher, husband of the church worker, is a noted educator of the east, and is superintendent of schools in Brookline. Mrs. Gallagher is of splendid colonial stock, descended from a Revolutionary hero who was her great-grandfather while her grandfather fought in the War of 1812 and her father was a captain in the Civil War.

Despite her military progenitors, she believes that national and international differences should be settled by law rather than war.

Refreshments were served in the late evening, those participating including Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. George Baxter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gillaspy and Miss Eleanor Adams.

The Colorado River Project

By J. P. Baumgartner

FIRST ARTICLE

THE COLORADO RIVER project is of such tremendous importance—it is so big and beneficial, both socially and economically—that its failure of accomplishment is unthinkable. And although its difficulties, at first glance, to the layman seem insurmountable, engineers, say, and laymen soon come to see, that it is perfectly feasible. Feasible not only with respect to flood control, water conservation, power development and silt elimination, but feasible also with respect to the delivery of water for domestic uses in the Los Angeles metropolitan area and Southern California generally.

Thus I would answer, on my own judgment and as expressing the judgment of others better qualified than I am to express an opinion, the foremost and most frequent of the scores of questions that are being asked the forty-odd Orange county men who recently returned from an inspection of dam sites and the whole Colorado river project.

Not only do the engineers say the big job can be done, but the people say it shall be done. Not only on the trip to the dam sites and to the Imperial and Palos Verde and Coachella and Yuma valleys, but in mingling with representative people of Los Angeles, Riverside, San Bernardino and Orange counties—everywhere is heard expressions of confidence and determination that the Colorado river project cannot, shall not fail.

PROCEEDING upon that theory—that the dam, a dam, some dam or dams, will, must, shall be built—Los Angeles has filed on 1500 second-feet of the flood waters of Colorado river, and has voted $2,000,000 in bonds for preliminary surveys to determine the most feasible route for an aqueduct to bring that water into the Los Angeles metropolitan area. Not only that, but Los Angeles is spending that money right now at the rate of $1000 a day in making preliminary surveys and in experiments in diversion and filtration works.

I shall take up the plans and purposes of Los Angeles in connection with this project in greater detail in subsequent articles. But in passing let me say that the greatest single factor in as-

PIRATICAL LOVE-MAKING AND REVENGE COMBINE TO OFFER THRILLS IN PLAY

Piratical love-making and piratical revenge both may be curbed by a pistol in the hands of an energetic cabin-boy, if the picture of a group of Community players from the cast of "Captain Applejack" is to be believed. "Anna Valeska," as portrayed by Irma Huffmeyer May, is the object of the affectionate advances of "Captain Applejack," none other than Joseph Peterson, while the vengeful "Ivan Borolsky," Jimmy Duggan, is kept at bay by "Poppy Faire," played by Cecil Fross Willits. "Captain Applejack" will open in the Ebell auditorium Wednesday night, at 8:15, for a four nights' run.

Different Musical Program Will Be Presented Each Night

Like earlier productions of Santa Ana Community Players, "Captain Applejack," which will open a four night's run in the Ebell auditorium next Wednesday night, will have the added attraction of a carefully planned musical program by representative artists of the city.

Each evening the music will differ from the preceding programs, but all will be presented by talented artists. On the opening night of the entertaining comedy drama, the Santa Ana Symphony orchestra, and the municipal band. Assisting him will be Miss Ruth Armstrong at tain and between acts. The members of the trio are perhaps three of the best known musicians in the city, Miss Ruth Armstrong, pianist; Mrs. Walter Spicer, violinist, and W. G. Axworthy, cellist.

Thursday night the saxophone trio will play, with Ray Hutchins at the piano. The three saxophonists will be Orest Cianfoni, Clayton Lowell and Harold Fish. Friday night will offer still another variation, when Lyle Roberts will play clarinet solos to the piano accompaniment of Ione Tunison Peck. And on Saturday, when the final performance will be given, the musical offering will be by D. C. Cianfoni, founder and director of the Santa Ana Symphony orchestra, and the municipal band. Assisting him will be Miss Ruth Armstrong at

JUVENILE BOOK LIKES RELATED BY LIBRARIAN

Great Care in Selection Of Child Reading Urged By Margaret Livingston

Books, as dry as dust to some people, to others living things.

They are the latter to Miss Margaret Livingston, county librarian. That is, some of them are.

Today she talked about books, her stock in trade, and she made some remarks that may be of interest to all persons who read books, particularly to those parents who have children who love books.

Girls between 12 and 13 years old read boys' books but boys do not read girls' books. Miss Livingston remarked, but she could give no reason for the seeming literary phenomena.

The "dangerous age" in reading books and magazines comes to children between 13 and 15 years old. At that time, they begin to take their eyes from the cut and dried classics laid out for them by their teachers and librarians and begin to search the literary horizon for new books, which will give them a new vision of life, according to Miss Livingston.

Impressionable Age

With children of that age, the librarian said, parents should be careful what books or magazines are left carelessly upon the reading table. It is the impressionable age, when trashy writing and gaudy pictures make themselves felt more than at any other time.

"The father may enjoy a cheap, loosely written magazine, but he should care enough for his children not to leave such things around for the youngsters to pick up," in Miss Livingston's opinion.

Books of factual content have the greatest appeal to the children just learning to read, she continued. Fairy tales, nature books, stories about children of other lands, animal tales and picture stories have the greatest appeal to little boys and girls.

Persons who think Babbitt is still "hot stuff" among book lovers may get a shock. The county librarian ventured, in the list of the six best sellers in the April fiction list. Here they are:

Six Best Sellers
"Thunder on the Left" (Morley)
"The Private Life of Helen of Troy" (Erskine)
"The Perennial Bachelor" (Parish)
"Wild Geese" (Martha Ostenson)
"Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" (Loos)
"Unchanging Quest" (Gibbs)

Equally illustrative of the whims and vagaries of the book-loving public is the list of best sellers in the field of general literature, she said. The following are the first six for April:

"The Man Nobody Knows" (Barrett)
"Diet and Health" (Peters)
"Why We Behave Like Human Beings" (Dorsey)
"Abraham Lincoln, the Prairie Days" (Sandburg)
"Life and Letters of Walter Hines Page" (Hendrick)
"When We Were Young" (Milne).

A real revival is on at the Church of the Nazarene, corner of Fifth and Parton streets. Meeting every day at 10 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. excepting Sunday.

LEADERS ORDER SHARP PRUNING OF CASH BILLS

WASHINGTON, April 26.—

Framing their legislative program for the remaining days of the session, house leaders served notice that a score of bills now on the calendar, proposing large expenditures, must undergo sharp pruning or fail to be considered.

The last reduction in taxes, leaders said, would be completely offset if congress enacted all of these bills and other money bills which are expected to be submitted within the next two weeks.

"We have got to protect the federal treasury," said the chairman, Representative Snell, New York, Republican, of the rules committee, who has been besieged with requests for special rules for many pending bills.

"There is no objection to veterans' relief and pensions legislation, but we must be sure that all proposals are cut to the minimum.

"We are going to pass many of the pending money measures, but only after non-essential features have been eliminated. We are fairly certain there will be a surplus in the treasury this year, but it is for next year that we must provide."

P.-T. A. MAKES MOVE AGAINST VILE READING

Recommendations Outline Method of Suppressing Traffic of Magazines

Methods of procedure in dealing with the problem of suppressing the traffic in salacious and questionable publications are outlined in the final recommendations of a special committee appointed by the California Congress of Parents and Teachers, according to advices received today by Mrs. J. Edmond Snow, 407 West First street, president of the fourth (Orange county) district of the P.-T. A.

The recommendations were adopted following a series of conferences held in San Francisco and Los Angeles, attended not only by well known P.-T. A. workers but by prominent educators, social welfare workers, law officers, club-women and representatives of publishing houses.

Plan is Outlined

The details of the plan outlined in the recommendations, which were approved at the last meeting of the executive board, are as follows:

"That the committee in charge of this work be called the Co-operative Council for Better Magazines.

"That each district handle the work by forming co-operative local councils in every town in the district.

"That each district be given general information in concise manner of postal and federal regulations, practice of distributors, why printed lists of salacious magazines may not be printed and why local groups must investigate and decide for themselves what magazines should be eliminated.

Visit News Stands

"That committees go to local news stands and see if, for moral and business reasons, the dealer cannot be influenced to remove the most objectionable magazines.

"That wherever possible a practical, competent speaker be sent by districts to service clubs, women's clubs, religious organizations, etc., to help form and mobilize public opinion.

"Send out printed lists of worthwhile magazines, such as are being compiled by librarians, and ask that every force be used in getting back of these 'white' lists."

The sacred concert, given yesterday afternoon in the Spurgeon Memorial church, by the Santa Ana Symphony orchestra, was of more than usual merit, according to declarations today by some of those in attendance.

Fine musical talent was apparent throughout the performance in both ensemble and solo numbers.

The concert opened with two light numbers, "Lullaby" (Brahms) and "Aubade" (Massenet) and both were pleasing to the large audience. The vocal solo, "Christ Went Up Into the Hills," sung by Maria Bishop, was well received, the singer showing unusually good taste and correct interpretation.

Perhaps the most enthusiastically received number was the "Carnival of Venice," presented by a quartet of violinists, composed of Elwood Bear, concert master; Georgia Walton, Pearl Winter and Ronald Crookshank. The "Peer Gynt Suite" (Op. 46) perhaps was the most serious number. In this the members of the orchestra and its conductor, D. Cianfoni, showed remarkable accuracy in handling the scores.

The second movement, scored for muted stringed instruments, was played with such perfection as to fully demonstrate the talents of members. The third movement showed the good training of the violin players, who gave it a joyful interpretation, while in the fourth movement, the orchestra brought out the full characteristic of the torments of gnomes and imps.

The sacred song, "Flight of the Ages," and the overture, "Zampa," the latter the closing number, were enthusiastically received.

The Rev. Moffett Rhodes, pastor of the church, in a brief address, stressed the value of the orchestra to the community and commented on the sacrifice of time and money by members in giving the city such an accomplished musical organization. Tribute was paid Cianfoni, director, for his faithful work with the orchestra and the Santa Ana Municipal band.

New Home for Scientific Instruments Needed at Once, Asserts Observer

COUNTY MAY LOSE VALUE OF RECORDS

Funds Once Appropriated By Board of Supervisors Never Materialized

BY E. MERLE HUSSONG

Very valuable scientific instruments, some of them so delicate that a breath will render them out of adjustment, are in danger of being exposed to the effects of the elements if steps are not taken at once to provide proper housing for them, according to Antar Deraga, observer at the geophysical observatory at Newport harbor.

The equipment now is installed in a house formerly owned by W. J. Hole, at Corona del Mar. Hole recently sold the residence and grounds and the scientific apparatus must be moved by May 8, the date set by the new owner for taking possession.

Deraga has but one place to move them, a little shack through which the desert winds course and the dampness and fog from the ocean penetrate, a place entirely unfit as a home for the instruments.

Deraga explained that the county supervisors had appropriated $3000 and the city of Newport Beach a similar sum for the construction of a house for the equipment but the money never had materialized. He presumed that the funds still are available, but even if the money were provided his problem would not be solved, for there is no land owned by the county or the city on which the weather station could be located.

ALL-IN

Do you have that tired, worn, all-in feeling that, under the least exertion seems to drain your last ounce of strength? Do you feel as tired in the morning as when you went to bed? Is it a hardship for you to go about your daily work? In other words, have you lost your pep or energy? This condition is a danger signal warning you of trouble, existing within your body. Some part of your human machine is not functioning properly, and shows signs of weakness. This has already become great and, should we not call for help? Nature is ever on the alert to warn us of approaching danger, and if we heed the call we can save ourselves time, misery and money.

We, as Palmer X-Ray Chiropractors, have made a special study of the spine and the nervous system and realize the importance of keeping the nerves free from pressure in order to have and maintain a healthy body. Many individuals think that because we work exclusively on the spine we cannot correct that particular condition of sickness of a people, not realizing that every part of the body receives its power to function or its life directly from the spine. These nerves, our work is to find them, pinched nerves which are causing your trouble and with our electric, violet-ray, electronic reaction, we can remove this hindrance alone in a very careful manner without pain or remove this pressure. We do not use medicine, surgery, osteopathy, massage, electricity, violet-ray, electronic reaction, etc. You, too, can be well and enjoy good health.

Women's Danger

Of offending under the oldest hygienic handicap now ended. New way provides true protection—discards like tissue.

WITH the old-time "sanitary pad" women realize their constant danger of offense, plus the embarrassment of disposal. And thus offend.

"KOTEX," a new and remarkable way, is now used by 8 in 10 better class women.

It's five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads!

You dine, dance, motor for hours in sheerest frocks without a second's doubt or fear.

It deodorizes, too. And thus stops ALL danger of offending. Discards as easily as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

You ask for it at any drug or department store, without hesitancy, simply by saying "KOTEX."

Do as millions are doing. End old, insecure ways. Enjoy life every day. Packets of twelve costs only a few cents.

Coast Preparatory League, lost all chance for a Southern California crown by a combination of mishaps that will go down on record as the most ever suffered by a contending school.

The first setback occurred when Welch, probably the best prep high hurdler in the state, tripped over a hurdle and failed to qualify in his heat of the semi-finals. At the time, Welch was leading his field which included Meeks, the highly touted Hollywood star, by three yards.

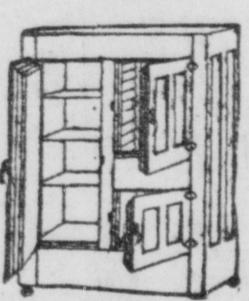

The second blow was when the crack Pasadena relay team, almost a certain winner, failed to qualify because Caines, its anchor-man, dropped his baton. Pasadena was far out in front at the juncture of the race but by the time he stopped and recovered the stick he was too far behind to make up the lost ground.

San Diego, the league's other "hope," placed all its stars, however, and is certain to make a good showing in the finals.

JAPANESE BORN IN HAWAII MAY COME TO U. S.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—Restrictions against entrance of Hawaiian-born citizens of oriental origin into the United States have been ordered removed.

Under a special immigration certificate devised by Gov. W. R. Farrington, of Hawaii, and W. W. Husband, assistant secretary of labor, natives of Japanese or other Far Eastern ancestry will be accorded the same privileges of freedom of travel as any other citizen, it was announced. The new system prevents discrimination because of race, which has been a bone of contention for 20 years, Husband declared. Birth certificates issued by the territorial government until the present time were never generally recognized by immigration authorities.

The special certificates remain with the individual as an identification. It is expected that they will be available in Hawaii by June 1.

The labor department has ordered only 2000 certificates printed which should last 10 years under Farrington's estimate.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 26.—The action granting Hawaiian-born Japanese free entry into the United States will affect between 65,000 and 125,000 Japanese, V. S. McClatchy, secretary of the California Joint Immigration committee, said.

McClatchy has been a prominent leader in the fight against Japanese immigration.

"While the committee regrets that the agreement will make it easy for thousands of Japanese to come to California," McClatchy said, "we cannot protest. They are American citizens and entitled to all the rights of citizens."

"If there is any criticism of this development, it should be directed against the policies of the past that kept the gates of Hawaii open to Japan for so many years, although barring them from the states."

Gamblers Scatter When Cop Appears

ORANGE, April 26.—Shooting dice on a vacant lot caused the arrest of four Mexicans here Saturday noon but 17 others who were also alleged to have been in the game escaped when officers raided the open air game.

J. Madaleno, 22; A. Lopez, 24; L. Ebdriguez, 26, and one other person whose name was not obtained were arrested. The unknown person was released by officers when he declared he was only a spectator.

The other three pleaded guilty and were assessed $25 each by City Recorder G. W. Ingle.

George Peterkin, motorcycle officer, broke up the party. Peterkin mingled with the crowd unnoticed and managed to scoop up a small amount of money, the dice and colored the four Mexicans before the players knew what was happening.

The other Mexicans dispersed rapidly in all directions.

The arrests were made on a vacant lot on North Cypress street.

BASEBALL BUGS

Walter Hagen is a baseball bug. Willie Hoppe is in the same class.

Not only do these two stars like to watch the game, but they prefer playing it.

In playing baseball there is always great danger of injury to the hands. The deft putting touch of Hagen in golf and the finesse of Hoppe's billiard play depends largely on the condition of their hands.

Yet down south this spring it was not unusual to see Walter Hagen out playing ball with the big leaguers. Hoppe has the same habit.

Both Hagen and Hoppe probably would have starred at the national pastime had they taken it up with the same purpose and determination they did golf and billiards.

CURVE PITCHING

"Unless a pitcher is blessed with terrific speed, a good curve ball is the most deceptive delivery," says John McGraw.

Working on that theory, it is said New York pitchers throw at least two curves to every fast ball. Perhaps the ratio is even more pronounced.

McGraw's pitchers are known as curve-ball pitchers. When opposing teams face the Giants are always tough to beat.

All of which seems to bear out McGraw's ideas as to curve-ball pitching.

Promising Rookie

Of the young pitchers I saw in the south, none impressed me more than Elmer "Dutch" Lewson of the Cleveland club.

Lewson is a right-hander who, aside from having good speed, has a mighty fine curve ball.

Last season he was with George Stallings at Rochester in the International league. Stallings has a habit of developing good pitchers. He says Lewson is one of the best that ever worked under him.

BOWLING

Less than a month from the finish line, all Santa Ana's bowling league bowling teams are near the top in their respective leagues and assured of closing their schedules in the first division.

Mitchell's Decorators, local entrants in the Southern California Junior League, are virtually certain to win the title in their division. They need but three more points to clinch their crown.

The week's schedule among the traveling league squads follows:

Mondays—Barry Classy Hats vs. Santa Ana Register at C. and C. Alley, Santa Ana; G. A. Hale vs. El Rodeo, El Rodeo; H. S. H. vs. El Rodeo, El Rodeo.

IVANHOE—Sir Walter Scott's Classic in Pictorial Form

THE MONK BADE THE STRANGER MOUNT ONE OF HIS HORSES AND COMPANY WERE GUIDED ALONG ANOTHER ROAD THAT THAT RECOMMENDED BY WAMBIA. PRESENTLY THE GUIDE SPOKE. "YONDER IS ROTHERWOOD, HOME OF CEDRIC THE SAXON."

TOPPING THE COMPANY BEFORE THE DRAWBRIDGE ENTRANCE TO THE CASTLE, BRIAN THE TEMPLAR BLEW HIS HORN LOUDLY. THE RAIN NOW DESCENDED IN GREAT TORRENTS.

WITHIN THE DWELLING, CEDRIC SAT AT TABLE. HE WAS IN ILL HUMOR BECAUSE OF THE LATENESS OF THE SUPPER HOUR. WHO CARRIES THE LADY ROWENA? WHERE IS BRIAN THE SWINEHERD AND WAMBIA? SOONLY, THE BLARE OF A TRUMPET! "TO THE GATES, KNAVES!" CRIED CEDRIC.

ALTHOUGH HATING THE NORMANS, CEDRIC IMMEDIATELY DISPATCHED HIS MAJORDOME TO BID THE VISITORS WELCOME AND ORDERED HIS SERVANTS TO PLACE THE BEST MEAL AND BROACH THE OLDEST WINE CASK.

The WOMAN'S DAY

by Allene Summer

Things Women Do

Mrs. Helen H. Gardner, late member of the U. S. Civil Service commission, upon her deathbed bequeathed her brain to the scientists of Cornell university, so the truth might be learned about the contention that the female brain is inferior to the male. The scientists have not yet made their report.

Mrs. Gertrude Atherton, American novelist, recently received a medal as Chevalier of the order of the Legion of Honor for her war relief work in France. Women everywhere are more interested in Mrs. Atherton's rejuvenation operation, which changed her from a middle aged woman to a slightly post-flapper. Her novel, "Black Oxen," is the story of this experience.

"What the flapper really means when she says 'I've a right to my own dog of myself' is really 'I want to make a hog of myself.' Quoted from an eminent eastern divine.

When the tired housewife means 'If I only didn't have to cook on Sunday,' she is but rebelling at a social custom much at odds with nature. In California there is a huge lion farm. The keeper explains that Monday is Blue Monday to his lions because on that day they are fed only water. "Their stomachs should rest one day," he says. "They would not make a kill every day in the jungle."

That blondes are passive, brutes aggressive, has long been taught us. Now real scientific investigation says that all this stuff is "the bunk." The psychology department of the University of Minnesota assigned for study two brunettes and blondes each to the 94 students in the department. Each student reported the possession of the same characteristics with the same intensity in both blondes and brunettes.

Your Home

How many newlyweds buy bookcases? Mighty few in this day of small flats and circulating libraries. But there are always the few books to be disposed of. Shops are full of charming book shelves. Lovely ones of lacquer and red lined up the right room.

The Meal

When the Japanese cook a meal they insist that the menu contain the five different tastes—sweet, sour, salt, bitter, acrid. Here's an appetizer that will answer the "sour" bill. Chop and mix 1 cup cabbage, 1 tablespoon chives, $\frac{1}{2}$ pimento, 2 olives. Chill and cover with French dressing.

The Beauty

If you are a blonde use flesh or pink powder, clear rose rouge and light, bright lipsticks. In the brunette class, use peach or ochre powders, orange rouges and lipsticks.

A Thought

Grudge not one against another, brethren, lest ye be condemned; behold, the Judge stands before the door.—Jas. 5:9.

To harbor hatred and animosity in the soul makes one irritable, gloomy and prematurely old.—Auerbach.

BEAUTY CHATS

by EDNA KENT FORBES

KEEPING TIDY

The newest handbags are so various they allow you to carry any number of useful toilet articles and these days, when people seem to rush from one social engagement to another, and from an office to dinner and theater and dancing, some sort of portable beauty case is certainly essential.

Every busy woman, whether it's business or frivolity that keeps her on the go, should carry a tiny compact powder case, either powder, or powder and rouge combined. She should carry a small comb, and a lipstick of either rose colored or which cold cream, a small mirror and a short orange wood stick, blunt on one end to push back the cuticle around the nails, sharp on the other end to clean under them.

This sounds like a whole bagful in itself, but as a matter of fact, the most charming little vanity rouge and powder cases come in sizes not much larger than a silver dollar, quite flat, with a double mirror that divides one compartment from another; the lipstick and eyebrow pencil do not take up much space; the combs are often hinged, like a jack-knife, and the orange stick is about two inches long and fits into the bag. Sometimes the whole outfit comes in a flat, oblong case, some of these even include the tiniest, flattest little buffer to bring back the polish to the nails after they are dull from washing.

I don't think it is a sign of foolish vanity to carry one of these outfits. If you work in an office, the most thorough washing of the hands won't prevent black lines under the nails—why not look neat and tidy day and evening too?

fresh fruit well sweetened between thin slices of sponge cake or angel food. The "sandwich" is then masked with whipped cream.

Baked shad with raisins is not an everyday dish, but is quite delicious and worth while.

Baked Shad With Raisins

One good-sized shad, 4 or 5 thin slices salt pork, 3 tomatoes, 2 tablespoons butter, $\frac{1}{2}$ cup seedless raisins, 2 tablespoons minced parsley, $\frac{1}{2}$ cup cold water.

Have the shad split and cleaned.

Place slices of salt pork on the rack of a roaster and put fish on them. Cut tomatoes in slices and arrange through the center of the fish. Spread each slice generously with butter. Sprinkle with raisins and parsley. Add salt and pour around the water. Cover roaster and bake in a moderate oven for 45 minutes. Serve on a hot platter and garnish with sprigs of parsley.

Perhaps its ancestors lived honestly, as most plants do, by gathering directly from the soil, with its own roots, the food that mother earth gives her children. Then it must have had green coloring matter in its now colorless stalk, and red green leaves instead of these scaly bracts, and brightness in its petals.

But now it has lived so long on the bounty of others that it has lost the power to work for itself, and is devoid even of color, save that its flowers, as if it were blushing for the shame of its thieving.

OIL OPERATOR SIGNS YORBA LINDA LEASES

Meyer Can't Be Recorder At Newport

NEWPORT BEACH, April 26.—The Newport Beach trustees who last week ousted Andrew Wilson as city recorder and appointed S. A. Meyer in his place, will have to make another selection when they meet tonight.

It appears that it is against the law for an official of a company supplying supplies to a municipality to hold office in said municipality. Since Meyer is the owner of a publishing firm in Newport Beach, it will be necessary for him to tender his resignation.

It is understood that several citizens of the beach city have their eyes on the city recorder job and are now engaged in the gentle art of placing their qualifications before the members of the board.

Ranches already signed up by the new firm are as follows: W. H. Bertram, 11 acres; J. H. Enright, 10 acres; A. H. Wilkins, five and a half acres; Stein-Strauss company, seven acres; S. C. Rees, seven acres. Others who have leases submitted and are expected to sign include P. W. Damon, 14 acres, and J. R. Olson estate, 14 acres, Mrs. C. E. Lane, A. J. Olson and others.

Practically all of this land was leased some months ago by the Superior Oil company, and later quit claimed, so that title is in good shape and little delay is anticipated in obtaining the signatures. It is proposed to put the first well on the P. W. Damon property just north of Buena Vista avenue.

Nugent's wells on Signal Hill and has been operating at Carpinteria, in Ventura county. The firm is drilling equipment and one of the features of getting the leases has been the promise of development at once.

The E. L. Blanton No. 1 well on the Volumic Gauldin ranch at Rose drive and Gaudin avenue is on the pump with an output of 150 barrels per day. Blanton holds several other ranches nearby under lease but has made no announcement of other wells as yet.

GROVE LIONS HOLD ATTENDANCE LEAD

GARDEN GROVE, April 26.—With a one hundred per cent attendance at Wednesday's noonday luncheon of the Lions club, the local den continues to lead all clubs in the county in the International attendance campaign, which comes to a close in five weeks.

The feature of Wednesday's program was a comedy given by six members of the high school dramatic class entitled "Professor of Love," which was presented in a pleasing manner and kept the Lions "roaring" from start to finish. Those taking part in the playlet were Allen Wisner, Hilda Arky, Alora Owens, Marie Everett, Leighton Phillips and Earl Walker.

The next meeting of the club will be the regular monthly business session.

RICHFIELD

RICHFIELD, April 26.—Mrs. Hazel Francis was among the Eastern Star officers who were entertained by Hermosa chapter, Santa Ana, Monday evening.

Mrs. Leroy Walker entertained Mrs. Wallace Andrews and children, of Wilmington on Sunday.

A program has been arranged to take place in the Richfield school auditorium tonight. The affair is under the auspices of the Americanization department and will include addresses by prominent townspersons. At least one address will be given in Spanish. Solos, vocal and instrumental, will be given.

Mr. J. W. Johnson was a business visitor in Elsinore Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Gatewood visited Mrs. McQuire in Los Angeles on Sunday.

Mrs. Estella Walker motored to Pomona on Saturday to attend the musical contest of the California Eisteddfod Association in which her niece, Miss Greta Hills, participated.

FEELING LOTS BETTER NOW

Writes Ethel May Snider Who Used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Hartford City, Ind.—Doing house work and taking care of a sick woman proved to be too much for Ethel May Snider, R. R. 1 of Hartford City, until she started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Overwork had so undermined her health that she had to give up all outside work, and when she saw this medicine advertised in the "Star" and other papers, she went to a druggist and got a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

She took it regularly, was greatly benefited and now feels very much better.

Ethel May Snider's experience is similar to that of thousands of other women in all walks of life, who have sent testimonials to Lydia E. Pinkham's Medicine Company of Lynn, Mass.

From Maine to California, from Wisconsin to Texas, and from Nebraska to Florida letters are received every day from grateful women who say the Vegetable Compound has helped to restore their health.

ABANDON TWO SHELL WELLS AT SEAL BEACH

SEAL BEACH, April 26.—Abandoned by the Shell company of its Bryant No. 2 and Bryant No. 4 wells in the Seal Beach district is likely to mark the end of that company's operations there, at least for the present, it was intimated by Shell officials Saturday.

The drilling of four wells on the Bryant lease, and one on the Bixby property has occupied the Shell company for the last three years, and has practically proved those leases to be unproductive, it is said. Oil was found in three of the projects, but in such thin streaks, accompanied by barren sands and water sands, that commercial production did not develop.

The failure of the Shell wells and the apparent similar fate of the Marland Oil company's Bixby, No. 1 in effect limits the hope of production at Seal Beach to Landing Hill on the Hellman holdings of the Associated Oil company, and the area northwest of Landing Hill, which has no yet been tested.

The Associated Oil company is drilling prospect holes for geological information on the Hellman ranch, and the Union Oil company has started a well northwest of Landing Hill on the Bryant lease adjoining the Shell's Bryant property to the north.

The proximity of an oil-bearing structure or the pre-existence of such a structure has been proven by the showings found in the Shell wells and the Marland well. streaks of oil sand, intermingled with barren sand and water sand all the way from 4300 feet to 4800 feet, are taken as indications that these wells either are on the edge of a field yet to be discovered or that these showings are merely the remnants of oil in formations which formerly were thoroughly saturated, but from which the oil has migrated.

The Associated is expected to complete the chain of evidence for and against Seal Beach when it drills its next wildcat well on the Hellman property. The Union project is regarded as rather a forerunner in geological circles, but Landing Hill is regarded by some authorities as the most favorable spot for a well, and has not yet been drilled.

The process of elimination practically leaves it up to the Associated Oil company to bring in the Seal Beach field, or prove that the entire history of the district has been based upon a snare and a delusion.

The meeting begins with dinner, served at 6:30 o'clock.

WESTMINSTER

WESTMINSTER, April 26.—Miss Rhea, pretty May bride-elect, was complimented Wednesday afternoon, when the Happy Workers gave a miscellaneous shower for her in the home of Mrs. L. E. Barry, president of the association.

A feature of the afternoon was the mock wedding which took place under a large bell. This bit of rich comedy was staged by Mrs. Zelma E. Johnson, who was the bride; Miss Bertha Dickey, the poor girl; Mrs. Edna J. Day, the preacher; Mrs. Mae Mansperger, flower girl, and Mrs. Daisy ... Day, ring bearer.

Mrs. O. J. Day brought in the napkin ring on a bunch of carrots.

When the guests had recovered sufficiently from the pathos which charged the atmosphere during the solemn scene, and composure was regained, various games were introduced, so that not a dull moment was felt.

Miss Rhea will be married sometime in May to James Daly, of Signal Hill, where the couple expect to make their home. Those present at the shower Wednesday afternoon were Mrs. Bertha E. Fogel; Mrs. F. W. Williams; Mrs. I. W. Rould; Mrs. Daisy M. Day; Mrs. Charles Parr; Mrs. L. E. Barry; Mrs. H. B. Anderson; Mrs. Charles Walton; Mrs. A. W. Knox; Mrs. Edna J. Day; Mrs. H. Penhall; Mrs. Fred Bassie; Miss Lottie Knox; Mrs. Olive Rhea; Mrs. Melvin; Mrs. Goble; Mrs. Joe Walton; Mrs. R. A. Weld; Mrs. W. A. Knighten; Miss Bertha Dickey; Mrs. C. G. Davis; Mrs. Anna C. Miss Norma Kellogg, who has been with Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Johnson as a guest in their home for several weeks, returned Thursday to her home in Long Beach.

Those interested in the fine art of sewing will be glad to know that Walker's store is carrying a line of Pictorial Review patterns. This is something new to be able to get a pattern in Westminster.

Mrs. E. P. Baker has been employed for several nights as nurse in the Anaheim hospital.

Mrs. Floyd Morris enjoyed a birthday party Wednesday in the home of Mrs. John Plaue in Long Beach.

There will be an Endeavor meeting in the Presbyterian church on Sunday evening as the El Modena convention will continue until that time.

Miss Orta Muriel, of Los Angeles, is visiting her mother.

Mrs. Thomas Hosack and daughter, Ruth, spent the latter part of the week in Tujunga with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Woodford.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. McCall entertained Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Brown and their friends over Tuesday night. They have been touring California, and stopped overnight with the McCalls on their way back to their home in Minnesota.

At 7:30 o'clock, the business meeting convened, at which time the recommendations of the nominating committee for officers were accepted. Glenn Wight, superintendent of schools, Corona, addressed the assemblage on the subject "Opportunities in Every Day Life for Service."

RIVERSIDE'S CITY PARK

Having lived in Riverside for ten years, and still having property interests and many friends and relatives there, the editor of The Register naturally has kept in close touch with the growth and development of that city.

Several years ago, after a day of recreation in Riverside's beautiful Fairmount park, this writer was moved to write an article for the Riverside Press expressing his appreciation of the park, and pointing out to the people of Riverside the fact that it was one of the community's most valuable assets.

Undoubtedly it was and is, and it is becoming more so all the time, not only because the city is growing and its population becoming more dense, but because the city council recognizes the civic, social, economic and advertising value of the park, and provides ample money for its upkeep and expansion.

In view of the fact that on May 26, Santa Ana is to vote on a proposal to issue bonds for parks and playgrounds, the following editorial in the Riverside Press a few days ago is interesting and significant:

"Fairmount park is rapidly being put in shape for the coming summer; and in view of dredging of the smaller lake and its connection with the big lake and of other improvements in the park, the season of 1926 should be the greatest in the history of that popular playground. Primarily this park is for the use of the people of Riverside and Riverside county; but there is room in the park for visitors from cities and towns in neighboring counties, and individuals and organizations from San Bernardino, Los Angeles and Orange counties make frequent use of it. The park is a fine advertisement for Riverside; and it would be money well spent to get out a little folder regarding its attractions and send this to every church, fraternal organization and luncheon club with in a distance of 40 or 50 miles from Riverside. The result would undoubtedly be a much larger use of the park and the extension of its fame over a wider area.

People who come here for the privileges of the park not only spend money in Riverside but they become good boosters for the city. Visitors who have not yet located permanently in Southern California moreover find Fairmount park one of the pleasing features of Riverside and an argument that may influence them towards settling here.

"The park is a genuine and important asset and one that we should realize on more fully than we do. Any Riverside taxpayer who is in doubt on that point should visit the park any Sunday afternoon from now on and see the use made of the lakes, the picnic privileges, the plunge, and the recreational facilities and realize the pleasure afforded by the band concerts."

PROBLEMS OF STORAGE

The recent oil fires at San Luis Obispo and Brea may have a more far-reaching effect in relation to production policies than those not familiar with oil production might imagine. There is a probability that engineers of the big companies will recommend to their employers that storage in great reservoirs is so hazardous that that method of storage ought to be abandoned in favor of either small tanks, separated from each other so that a fire in one cannot spread to another, or of leaving the oil in the ground until it is needed.

It is not likely that either policy will be adopted to the elimination of the other. There have been times when the larger oil companies, by agreement, cut down production for the reason that storage reservoirs and tanks were full.

If there is an agreement for holding oil in the ground, wildcatting for new fields will likely be reduced, or the discovery of a new field will be withheld from the public until the oil companies get ready to develop it. As a matter of fact, there is a belief among great numbers of people that the larger oil companies are discovering and bottling up new fields now. However, we have never placed any credence in reports that the big companies have located fields in this county and have kept the news from the public. It has always seemed to us that a report of this kind in relation to any particular well is founded largely upon hopes that refuse to die.

ADMIT WAR VETERANS

The present immigration law is working very well, on the whole, and accomplishing the purposes it was intended for better than laws usually do. Nobody wants to break it down. There are some slight imperfections, however, that need removing.

There happen to be quite a few veterans of the World war who served in the American army and are now barred from the country under this law. Most of them are aliens who either remained abroad when our forces were ordered home, or have gone abroad since, and who now want to come here, but are barred by full quotas in the countries to which they owe allegiance.

A bill favorably reported to the Senate would let down the bars for such entrants. It is hardly conceivable that many Americans would object to such an act of justice and gratitude. Surely if there is any recommendation for admitting an alien to American opportunity and citizenship, it is that which comes from having fought under the American flag for American ideals.

OUTCOME OF BOOZE HEARINGS

The results of the liquor hearings at Washington, from the wet standpoint, must be considered disappointing. They have not gained what they sought. In spite of the deluge of evidence they submitted, most of the benefit of the hearings seems to have accrued to the drys.

The wet forced the hearings and largely determined their character. They submitted a vast amount of testimony discreditable to prohibition enforcement, but not much discreditable to prohibition in principle, as a national policy.

The scope of their drive was over-estimated. They made no plea for whisky or gin, and none for the saloon. The most they urged was mild beer and wine under government supervision. And from the public reaction to the testimony, for the present, at least, there is no indication of their getting that—not even near-beer.

It may be that the next congress, or the one after, will seriously consider a plea for a more liberal interpretation of the Eighteenth Amendment, allowing beer as strong as it may be without becoming "intoxicating in fact," say from 2 to 3 per cent alcohol. But that is about all.

Against that remote possibility and the slight cheer it gives the wet may be reckoned the one big reaction to the testimony of both sides, which is an urge toward more vigorous enforcement of the present prohibition act. There is no mistaking that. The wet have asked for a drink with a mild kick in it, and they are getting a wallop over the head with a dry club.

Makes Punishment Fit the Crime

San Francisco Chronicle
Los Angeles has an excellent system of traffic control designed to prevent motor accidents. Now it appears that it also has in Superior Judge Charles Burnell an officer who does not hesitate to apply the severity of jail sentence and fine when traffic regulations have failed to impress the wrongdoer.

Judge Burnell sentenced a drunken hit-and-run driver to four years in San Quentin and levied a fine of $4000. And if the effect of this sentence is a healthy warning to this class of reckless drivers, the severity of the penalty may be justified.

Our system of punishment is based on the theory that society must be protected against the culprit's misdeeds; again, that the offender may be sufficiently admonished and afflicted that he will not repeat the offense, and, further, that others may be restrained by the example of his punishment from any emulation of his act.

All these considerations are important, but if the purpose of the last alone was effected Judge Burnell has done the community he serves a real service.

The drunken driver is a constant menace to the life and limb of pedestrians as well as a terror to other motorists. When he hits and runs away he adds to his misdeeds the charge of cowardice. And the fact that he is not easily apprehended makes it necessary, when he is caught, to "treat him rough."

Here in California, where there is an automobile for every two and a half persons, the drunken driver is even more of a menace than he is in communities where the automobile is not so popular. And the more reason why our jurists should be severe in handling this kind of cases.

It is possible, then, without gloating over the punishment meted out in this particular case in Los Angeles, to commend the action of Judge Burnell.

Build More Forest Fire Lines

Fresno Republican
Forestry officials, community leaders, and many citizens are joining in the good work of education in caring for our Sierra forests.

It is natural we should need education. The forests have seemed in the past so vast, that they could be hurt no more than the ocean could be hurt. It was natural to be carelessly joyous in entering them, and using them.

We find we must continually remind ourselves, and our children and our friends, that a campfire, a lighted match, or a cigarette will destroy thousands of dollars worth of forests, and do other damage that money can not repair.

There is something else that we must do, in addition to training ourselves not to be careless in the mountains. That is, to support the work of the state and the federal government in the construction of fire lines.

The upbuilding of the forests is producing vast tree farms. These can not be cultivated like other farms to keep the weeds down. Every season, there is an increase in the fire hazard, through the growth of underbrush.

The cheapest and the simplest way to prevent the spread of fires, when once they start, is to have fire lines. They should be increased in number and in care, every year.

Let's have a public opinion that will strengthen the forest service in its facilities for building these fire lines.

CONQUEST OF DIPHTHERIA

If your child gets diphtheria you are to blame unless you have done your part to protect him.

Looking up the history of diphtheria we find that man was familiar with this disease long before the Christian era. The year 1613 was known in Spain as "diphtheria year," and medical history is full of accounts of disastrous epidemics of diphtheria in many parts of the world.

In 1821, a French physician demonstrated the fact that diphtheria was being spread among the troops by the common drinking cup, and he it was who described this disease very carefully, and gave it its present name.

Not much more was learned about diphtheria until 1853 and 1854 when the diphtheria germ, a microscopic plant, was discovered and proved to be the cause of this disease. Now the diphtheria bacillus, or diphtheria germ, though a very small microscopic plant, is a fairly large one compared to some other disease germs, that is, it is about one eight-thousandths to one five-thousandths of an inch in length, which may be regarded as a fair sized disease germ.

About the first use made of this discovery of the bacillus of diphtheria was that of determining by a bacteriological examination whether or not a child or other person who has a sore throat is suffering from diphtheria.

This is now an almost universal practice where modern physicians are to be found, and to let a child become seriously ill or die of diphtheria without a bacteriological examination when one can be had would not only be a disgrace, but it would be criminal, because the earlier the disease is recognized, the better the chances are of saving the child's life.

Shortly after the discovery of the diphtheria germ it was found that when these germs are grown in the laboratory they produce a poison known as "diphtheria toxin," and that the germs and the toxin can be separated from each other by a process of filtration.

This toxin can be made so strong that the hundredth part of a drop is sufficient to kill an average-sized guinea pig.

Later in the study of diphtheria it was found that by giving an animal repeated injections of diphtheria toxin, it would become resistant or immune to diphtheria—in other words, that you could not kill the animal with the disease itself.

By further experimentation it was found that the blood serum of an animal so immunized would cure diphtheria in a human being if given in time. This specially developed serum is known as "diphtheria antitoxin." It acts by counteracting the effect of the toxin produced by the growth of the germ in the body or in the throat, to be more exact.

The next step in the study of this disease was the discovery of the fact that the giving of antitoxin to persons who had been exposed to diphtheria would prevent their becoming ill of this disease. This protection does not last more than a few weeks, so our scientists went still further, and gave us finally two very wonderful, two very useful measures, namely: the Schick test and toxin-antitoxin immunization.

The scope of their drive was over-estimated. They made no plea for whisky or gin, and none for the saloon. The most they urged was mild beer and wine under government supervision. And from the public reaction to the testimony, for the present, at least,

Johnny Appleseed

Oakland Tribune

Chicago and other places have been paying tribute to the memory of Johnny Appleseed, the same Johnny Appleseed who, in his day, was regarded as harmless and a "little off."

When Johnny Appleseed was used cruelly by the world, when his dream of romance disappeared, he did not do as many other men have done, laid no plans to get even by returning evil for evil. Instead he went to the wilderness to bury his grief and there thought of a way to make the world better.

Through the forests and over the plains he went, up the rivers, stopping at Indian villages where he was received as a friend, and all the while he planted seeds of apples and other fruits. Surely that unselfish thought is worthy of commemoration. There was nothing to be gained by Johnny Appleseed in the act. He was not planting for himself, not even planning to return in later years to gather the harvest. He planted the seeds in the belief that men in increasing numbers would journey to the west and so he set the table for them as best he could.

There are many accounts of pioneer parties coming upon the ripened fruit of Johnny Appleseed's altruism. There have been many sermons preached from the text he provided. When the task of planting single seeds appears discouraging, when small acts done for the benefit of others seem futile, men remember a man who gave over the greater part of his life to the planting of fruit for those who would come his way in later years.

Worth While Verse

THE BIRTH OF THE OPAL

The Sunbeam loved the Moonbeam,
And followed her low and high,
But the Moonbeam fled and hid her head,
She was so shy—so shy.

The Sunbeam wooed with passion;
Ah, he was a lover bold!
And his heart was afire with made desire
For the Moonbeam pale and cold.

She fled like a dream before him,
Her hair was a shining sheen,
And oh, that Fate would annihilate
The space that lay between!

Just as the day lay panting
In the arms of the twilight dim,
The Sunbeam caught the one he sought
And drew her close to him.

But out of his warm arms startled
And stirred by Love's first shock,
She sprang afraid, like a trembling maid,
And hid in the niche of a rock.

And the Sunbeam followed and found her,
And led her to Love's own feast;
And they were wed on that rocky bed,
And the dying day was their priest.

And lo! the beautiful Opal—
That rare and wondrous gem—
Where the moon and sun blend into one,
Is the child that was born to them.

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Magistrate (severely)—The idea of a man of your size beating a poor weak woman like that!

Prisoner—But, your worship, she keeps irritating me all the time.

Magistrate—How does she irritate you?

Prisoner—Why, she keeps saying, "Hit me! Beat me! Just hit me once, and I'll have you hauled before that bald-headed old probate of a magistrate, and see what he'll do to you."

WEAK FOOTBALL TEAM

At a recent football match the home team was getting the worst of the battle. The rival supporters were deep in a heated argument and angry words flew like sparks from an anvil.

"What our team needs," said one home supporter, "is a really good coach."

"What your team needs," replied the visitors' supporter, in an acid voice, "is a good strong hearse!"—Toronto Globe.

The Heaping Teaspoonful

Kansas City Star

Mrs. Mary E. Morse of Chicago has been awarded the prize over two hundred contestants, for making biscuits that "taste like angel food cake," according to the news dispatches. And here is the recipe Mrs. Morse uses:

One quart of flour sifted twice; two heaping teaspoonsful of cream or tartar; one heaping teaspoonful of baking soda; one teaspoonful of salt; lard, the size of an egg; mixed with milk until an even consistency and baked ten minutes until a golden brown.

It was almost a waste of valuable news space for the dispatches to burden the story with the statement that Mrs. Morse is a grandmother. Those of us who recall the day before biscuit-making was a lost art would know that Mrs. Morse was a grandmother and that she belonged to another day.

When Mrs. Morse said: "Take two heaping teaspoonsful of cream or tartar," her speech betrayed her as not belonging to the day of jazz. Mrs. Morse probably would have been out of any court of domestic science in the land. The term "heaping teaspoonful" is as old-fashioned as dried apple pie. "You can't do it that way," the modernists insist. "How much is a 'heaping teaspoonful'?"

We confess we cannot answer the question as to what constitutes a "heaping teaspoonful" or the distinction between that measurement and never a lack.

We are not inclined to pessimism, and we give no credence to the rumor that the world is going to the bow-wows for want of good cooks. But—

Something told us, when we read that Mrs. Morse had won the prize with biscuits that "taste like angel food cake"—something instinctively told us—that Mrs. Morse was a grandmother, and that she used "heaping teaspoonful" in her recipe, and that she tempered it with "lard, the size of an egg."

In order to appreciate what a wonderful state California is to live in, there is nothing to equal a common-place one, there has been a tendency to overlook its study—yet its various duties and uses are
